Temenos Academy Review and Temenos Academy Papers

The Temenos Academy publishes an annual journal, the Temenos Academy Review, the successor to Temenos (founded by Keith Critchlow, Brian Keeble, Kathleen Raine and Philip Sherrard), published in thirteen issues between 1981 and 1992 and available digitally on our website. The Review contains papers given at the Academy and new work, including translations, poetry, art and reviews. The editors are John Carey, James Harpur and Valentin Gerlier.

The 2018 issue of the Review, no. 21, may be ordered using the Booking Form; a list of its contents appears on page 29.

Forty-three Temenos Academy Papers have been published. They are usually single lectures or lecture series that have been given as part of the Academy's programme. The most recent to appear are The Lost Vision of Nature by Joseph Milne and The Perennial Philosophy and the Recovery of a Theophanic View of Nature by Jeremy Naydler.

A Publications Catalogue – a descriptive list of all Temenos publications – can be viewed on the Temenos Academy website.

Temenos Academy Young Scholars

The Temenos Academy Young Scholars are an informal grouping of young students who are attracted to the Temenos Academy's approach to learning from, and not merely about, the great religious and philosophical traditions.

The Young Scholars organise Study Days or Conferences of which there have been six so far:

Cosmos – the Order of Things and Our Place in the World (2015)

Finding Common Ground: Exploring Unifying Principles in Poetry, Geometry, Philosophy and Music (2016)

Making A Good Society (2017)

Religious Thought in Today's World (2018)

The Gift of Language (2018)

'Deep roots are not reached by the frost':

The Inklings and the Western Tradition (2019)

The next Young Scholars Day will be held in Cambridge in October.

The Study Days include talks by keynote speakers and contributions from the Young Scholars themselves and are entirely free of charge.

Temenos Academy Young Scholars is open to anyone aged 18–35 years who wishes to take part in the Study Days. Young Scholars may on request receive the Temenos Academy termly programme or monthly email newsletter, and/or join as ordinary Members of Temenos by making a donation (see page 3).

Additionally, for those interested, Young Scholars may propose and submit an original paper on a topic of their choice written in a way that emulates the first five of the 'Ten Basic Principles that inspire the work of Temenos'. The subject may be drawn from the Humanities in general – art, philosophy, poetry, religion. For guidance look at the work of the numerous contributors to the Temenos Academy Review over the last 18 years. The essay should be at least 2,000 words in length. Essays will be appraised by the Temenos Academy Academic Board or a Temenos Academy Fellow and if accepted the author will be entitled to Membership of the Academy and a free subscription to the Temenos Academy Review until the age of 35. Essays of exceptional merit will be considered for publication in the Review.

Foundation Course in the Perennial Philosophy

A Two Year Part-Time Diploma Course

The purpose of the course is to introduce students to the universal tradition that is our spiritual heritage, through direct engagement with key texts of philosophy, poetry and mysticism. By exploring perennial teachings, which for centuries have renewed and sustained our culture, it offers a vital counterbalance to prevailing assumptions and values. The expertise of the tutors is devoted to providing the most direct encounter possible with the teachings themselves, which, springing from the love of wisdom and the quest for truth, open up infinite riches for study and contemplation. The authors and texts studied will be: in the first year, Plato and Plotinus, Dante's Divine Comedy, St Bernard of Clairvaux and Meister Eckhart; in the second year, the Upanishads and Bhagavad Gita, Lao Tzu, Chuang Tzu and the Huai Nan Tzu, Ibn al-'Arabi, and Attar's The Conference of the Birds.

The course is divided into six modules, or three per year, with weekly meetings in Central London led by the module tutor on Tuesday evenings from 7–9pm. Students will be expected to read approximately 30–40 pages of text each week. Tuition will be conducted by lectures and guided discussions of the content of the previous week's reading. Applicants must be aged 18 or over.

The next Part 1 commences in October 2019.

Thetis Blacker Temenos Batik Scholarship

The Thetis Blacker Temenos Batik Scholarship is an award made in memory of the artist Thetis Blacker to further the study of the art of batik. The award is administered by the Temenos Academy in association with the Batik Guild, a UK-based non-profit organization, which exists to encourage a wider appreciation and understanding of batik as a centuries-old craft which continues to meet the needs of creative artists working today. Thetis Blacker was a member of the Batik Guild. More information about its work can be found on its website <https://www.batikguild.org.uk>

The award, which is made every 2 years, is open to members of the Batik Guild, and other batik artists. The winner of the 2019 award is Seyram Agbleze for a project on traditional batik dyeing in West Africa.

THETIS BLACKER (1927–2006) made a notable contribution to Temenos as an artist and lecturer. Her work was first featured in Temenos 4, and her ‘Phoenix Egg’, designed for the journal, appeared on the covers of issues 6–9. In her life-time she was regarded as the pre-eminent batik artist in the West. Her brilliantly colourful and masterfully executed dye paintings were commissioned for and exhibited in cathedrals and churches in the United Kingdom, Europe and the United States. She was also a writer and the author of A Pilgrimage of Dreams (1973), an account of her own vivid dreams.

As a Churchill Fellow, Thetis Blacker studied the craft of batik in South East Asia. The purpose of the Thetis Blacker Temenos Batik Scholarship is primarily, but not exclusively, to support overseas research, study and travel in the field of batik creation.

SUMMER GARDEN

Now, now and now
Northern sky over me,
Sun filtering through
Grey summer haze,
Swifts feeding high,
Two by two
Looping and diving,
Their new throats utter Remembered voices.
In this old garden
Flowers bloom on
That my mother grew
And her mother before,
Sweet-williams and pansies,
The little white rose
The Jacobites wore.
Southernwood
And scent of briar
Spread on the evening
Memory of joy
That is always new.
Those sweet fore-mothers
Lived in this place
That has no ending,
These flowers were theirs,
This northern summer,
These swifts that fly
In fair weather high
In the delicate air.

Was their July
Milder than mine,
Their sky purer
Than over me now
As history darkens?
Were their hearts lighter,
Being innocent
Of what was to come
In the world I know?
Or is it I
Who for them see
This ageless beauty
Made anew
Because they hoped
For such a day
As I live now,
Because they gave,
Life after life,
The words of song
To a secret joy
That in them grew?

Reading Essential Texts and the Art of Study

One of the principal aims of the Temenos Academy is to rediscover the art of study. It is commonly thought that learning is simply the acquisition of facts, of committing information to memory or, in the arts, making a critical judgement. But this conception of learning leaves out of account its true purpose, which is to come to a new level of understanding and a new order of being.

Here the Temenos Academy Reading Essential Texts seminars have a special place. In them we are engaged in exploring seminal texts which embody the finest thought, reflection and insight of mankind. Works that bear the spiritual and cultural inheritance of mankind require a special quality of study which can penetrate their essence and engage directly with the source of wisdom from whence they came. This special quality of study aims at learning from these works, not simply about them.

Therefore, the first aim of study in these seminars is to apprehend and understand texts accurately. This is the first discipline of learning. The simple discipline of accurate reading is necessary because it brings precision to the mind and opens the way to deeper reading. Without this initial precision, no deeper understanding is possible, because no contact is made with the inner order and working of the text. The mind remains outside the world of the text.

This precise and accurate reading is greatly facilitated by carefully reading aloud. Language is a spoken medium and the printed word comes fully alive and reveals all its subtleties only when spoken. Until a text begins to render up its own inherent meaning, until it begins to speak directly to us, it will only call to mind associative ideas and opinions – meanings imposed upon the text from outside. All too easily this can pass for interpretation.

Ideally, a seminar is an exploration between students in a common search for new understanding and insight. The seminar leader has the task of focussing and guiding the study towards this object. Working together in harmony is the second discipline of learning. A seminar works at its finest when it works with one mind.

Unity of purpose and unity of mind go together and create a propitious atmosphere for study. This unity arises quite naturally through the love of the work being studied and through the common quest for understanding. In true study the heart and the reason work together. Through love of a great work the heart embraces its fineness and beauty, and this fineness and beauty is an aspect of its truth, while through careful exploration the intellect discerns its wisdom. Love moves naturally to the essence of the text, while intellect naturally discerns its parts, coherence and implications. These two actions of heart and intellect are mutually reciprocal and sustain one another. Together they lead to deeper engagement with the text, and open the way to insight.

When this deeper engagement is established significant questions spontaneously emerge from the text, and these are the appropriate questions to pursue. Such questions always illuminate the text being studied. These questions lead, in turn, to a contemplative reading in which the text comes alive and its meaning becomes actually present in itself; this contemplative reading represents a higher order reading than 'critical' or 'comparative' readings.

Given this process of full engagement with the text being studied, of learning directly from the text, scholarship then finds its natural place. Learning and research may then be called upon to facilitate penetration of the text. This is the rightful place for previously acquired knowledge. Temenos seminars are not concerned with disputations between different schools of thought about the work being studied. These are matters for lectures or private study. Yet seminars ought to lay the foundations for good scholarship. For it is only through a deeper reading of the text being studied that useful and pertinent scholarly questions arise.

In summary, true study arises by three stages: accurate reading, reflective engagement, and contemplative insight.

Hathor's Alchemy: The Ancient Egyptian Roots of the Hermetic Art

DR ALISON ROBERTS

Wednesday 8 May

In the chair Julia Cleave

Venue The Royal Asiatic Society

Doors open at 6.30pm

Lecture begins promptly at 7pm

Concludes 8.30pm

When teaching how to accomplish spiritual unification in the Masnavi, Jalaluddin Rumi advises ‘Try alchemy. Change copper into gold’ (Masnavi 1 3894). Surprisingly, he refers here, not to the Sulphur–Mercury theory, which is generally understood to be the basis of alchemy, but to transforming copper, the metal of the love goddess Venus – or Hathor in her Egyptian guise. Indeed, in Book 2 of the Masnavi, Rumi hints at his alchemical lineage, for he devotes a whole section to Dhu’l Nun al-Misri, the ninth century Egyptian Sufi and alchemist from Akhmim/Panopolis, revered by Sufis as the transmitter of the Egyptian secrets. What is little known, however, is Akhmim’s long tradition of transforming copper, which not only inspired the fourth century alchemists, Zosimus of Panopolis and his soror mystica Theosebia, but also re-emerged in Western treatises like Aurora consurgens, Donum Dei, and the Rosarium philosophorum through an Islamic transmission. Alchemists, including Zosimus, have always said their ‘science’ came from the Egyptian temples, but when re-expressed in their new idiom, and as a revelation of Hermes, its ‘Egyptianness’ became increasingly obscured.

ALISON ROBERTS studied ancient Egyptian and Akkadian at Oxford University where she received her doctorate in 1984. This talk is based on her recent book Hathor's Alchemy: The Ancient Egyptian Roots of the Hermetic Art (2019).

Bulgakov and Russian Sophiology

PROFESSOR ANDREW LOUTH

Wednesday 15 May

In the chair Dr Joseph Milne

Venue The Royal Asiatic Society

Doors open at 6.30pm

Lecture begins promptly at 7pm

Concludes 8.30pm

Father Sergii Bulgakov (1871–1944), widely regarded as one of the most important Orthodox theologians/thinkers of the twentieth century, was a controversial figure. The controversy largely revolved round his developments of Russian speculation about Sophia, the Wisdom of God, for which he suffered ecclesiastical censure. Such speculation about Sophia has various roots: apart from the figure of Sophia in the Wisdom Literature of the Christian Bible, and use of this made by the so-called ‘gnostics’ of the second century of the Christian millennium, reflection on Sophia played a striking role in the ‘mystical’ or ‘esoteric’ undercurrent that accompanied the ‘mainline’ tradition of post-Renaissance philosophy and had a profound influence on German idealism, while Russian defenders of Sophia pointed to elements in the liturgical tradition of the Russian Orthodox Church. Reflection about Sophia was, for Bulgakov, not just a speculative matter, but was bound up with his rediscovery, after a period as an atheist Marxist, of his ancestral faith, which entailed a deep sense of the sacredness of the world of nature. Part of Bulgakov’s importance lies in his sensitivity to traditions in Western thought in the post-medieval period, often regarded as alien to traditional Christian belief, this without, however, any weakening of his own attachment to a firmly Orthodox faith.

Educated at Cambridge and Edinburgh, ANDREW LOUTH read mathematics and then theology. For forty years, he taught in universities at Oxford, London, and Durham, and is mostly known as a patristic scholar. After retirement in 2010, he spent some years with the newly founded Amsterdam Centre for Orthodox Theology at Vrije Universiteit; out of that experience he wrote more explicitly as an Orthodox theologian, having been received into the Orthodox Church in 1989, and ordained as a priest of the Russian Orthodox Church (Diocese of Sourozh, Moscow Patriarchate) in 2003. He has written many books, including The Origins of the Christian Mystical Tradition (1981, new edition 2007), Denys the Areopagite (1989), St John Damascene: Tradition and Originality in Byzantine Theology (2002), and more recently Modern Orthodox Thinkers: from the Philokalia to the present (2015).

The Mystery and the Mysticism of Christina of Markyate (c.1096–c.1160)

DR HENRIETTA LEYSER

Monday 20 May

In the chair Hilary Davies

Venue The Royal Asiatic Society

Doors open at 6.30pm

Lecture begins promptly at 7pm

Concludes 8.30pm

The twelfth-century recluse Christina was prioress of Markyate, near St Albans. Determined to devote her life to God and to remain a virgin, Christina repulses the sexual advances of the bishop of Durham. In revenge he arranges her betrothal to a young nobleman, but Christina steadfastly refuses to consummate the marriage and defies her parents' cruel coercion. Sustained by visions, she finds refuge with the hermit Roger, and lives concealed at Markyate for four years, enduring terrible physical and emotional torment. Although Christina is supported by the abbot of St Albans, she never achieves the recognition that he intended for her. In her talk Henrietta Leyser will examine the deep-seated reluctance to accord Christina a place among medieval English mystics.

HENRIETTA LEYSER is an emeritus Fellow of St Peter's College, Oxford. Her publications include Hermits and the New Monasticism (1984) and Medieval Women: a social history of women in England 450–1500 (1995).

With Samuel Fanous she has both edited a collection of essays entitled Christina of Markyate, A Twelfth Century Holy Woman (2005) and produced a revised translation of the Oxford World's Classics Life of Christina of Markyate (2008). She has also contributed a chapter to eds Samuel Fanous and Vincent Gillespie, The Cambridge Companion to Medieval English Mysticism (2011).

Alphanumeric Cosmology: The Grammar and Arithmetic of the Cosmos

DR JUAN ACEVEDO

Monday 10 June

In the chair Emma Clark

Venue The Royal Asiatic Society

Doors open at 6.30pm

Lecture begins promptly at 7pm

Concludes 8.30pm

The civilizations that grew around the Mediterranean in the early Middle Ages had as one of their basic shared doctrines the idea that physical reality is ultimately made of letters, or rather letter-numbers, hence that the world is a book, or a proportional, harmonic composition. This talk will explore the origins and variations of this idea in Pythagorean doctrines, and its changing faces through cultures and languages, including Hebrew and Arabic, and Jewish, Christian, and Islamic sources. We will see how this key concept of the letter-element is fundamental for a metaphysical understanding of creation through language, of magic, prayer, and even our own contemporary science.

JUAN ACEVEDO studied Classics and Biblical Hebrew in his native Venezuela, where he is a published poet and essayist. His lifelong interest in the language of the birds, and years of experience as a typesetter came to fruition in a doctoral thesis for the Warburg Institute, 'The Idea of the Letter-Elements (Stoicheia) in Grammar and Cosmology: From Ancient Roots to Medieval Systems'. Juan has worked for many years as director of the Matheson Trust for Comparative Religion.

Sanskrit as a Sacred Language

DR M. N. NANDAKUMARA

Wednesday 26 June

In the chair Vinod Tailor

Venue The Royal Asiatic Society

Doors open at 6.30pm

Lecture begins promptly at 7pm

Concludes 8.30pm

Sanskrit is an Indian classical language whose history stretches back over three thousand years. For much of that time, Sanskrit has been the primary vehicle of intellectual, literary, and religious expression in India. The earliest Sanskrit is Vedic, the language of the Vedas. These are religious texts with poetic and philosophical elements, which over time became the authoritative, revealed literature of Brahmanical Hinduism. Most Hindu religious literature, and the heroic epics the Mahābhārata and the Rāmāyana, are written in Sanskrit.

DR M. N. NANDAKUMARA belongs to a family of Vedic scholars from Mattur, Karnataka. He was educated at the University of Mysore (MA, 1975) and the School of Oriental and African Studies, London (PhD, 1983), and has been Executive Director of the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan, London, the largest Indian arts organisation outside of India, since 1995. A distinguished teacher of Sanskrit, he is Chairman of the UK Sanskrit Association. He is also one of the leading Hindu priests in the UK. He is the recipient of numerous awards for services to Indian art, culture and education.

The Learning of the Imagination: Wisdom Traditions and Sacred Vision

As part of the Harmony Institute and University of Wales Trinity Saint David's conference this July, Temenos is offering a day of talks introducing some key themes and thinkers of the 'learning of the Imagination'. We hope to create a 'temenos', a sacred space, to encourage the exchange of ideas about the values we have inherited and which we wish to pass on to future generations.

Venue The Founder's Library, UWTSO Lampeter

Campus, Ceredigion

Registration 10am

Concludes 5pm

Speakers

Hilary Davies Sacred Vision and the Landscape

This lecture will examine how three different poets, David Jones, Gerard Manley Hopkins and Dylan Thomas, have been inspired by the Welsh landscape to open up the visionary world of the Imagination through their poetry. They raise questions about how we are embedded in past landscapes, how present landscapes offer us spiritual dimensions, and what stewardship we owe for the future.

Howard Hull Storming into Beauty: Ruskin, Turner and the Ethics of the Dust

Ruskin coined the term 'heartsight' to describe J.M.W. Turner's vision of 'vital beauty'. Beauty in Ruskin's book was a life-giving force, an agency in which affection and kindness create a sustaining ecology for all amid the atomising chaos of an otherwise brutal world. Ruskin expanded his reading of Turner's painterly techniques to embrace a wider law of life which he called the Law of Help. For Turner the primary medium was light, for Ruskin it was the earth, but for both the human heart provided the central fire for everything, animating nature and mankind for good or bad according to the values and spirit it embodied.

Professor Grevel Lindop W.B. Yeats and the Poet's Quest for Vision

Dr Joseph Milne Cosmic Harmony and the Sacred City

This lecture will draw upon ancient myths and philosophy to show the enduring relation between the divine order of the cosmos and human life.

HILARY DAVIES is a poet, translator, essayist and critic. The author of four collections of poetry, including her latest, Exile and the Kingdom (Enitharmon, 2016), she has won an Eric Gregory Award, been a Hawthornden Fellow and served as Chair of the Poetry Society of Great Britain. She is currently a Royal Literary Fund Fellow at the British Library. She reviews regularly for the Times Literary Supplement, PN Review, The Tablet and the Temenos Academy Review.

HOWARD HULL is Director of Brantwood, John Ruskin's former home in the Lake District, where he has lived with his wife, Pamela, since 1996. He is a Ruskin scholar and passionate advocate of his legacy.

GREVEL LINDOP was formerly Professor of English at Manchester University. He has published seven collections of poems as well as travel books and biographies, most recently of the poet, novelist, theologian and 'Inkling' Charles Williams. He is currently writing a book on the spiritual life and poetry of W.B. Yeats. He is a Fellow of the Temenos Academy and chair of its Academic Board.

JOSEPH MILNE is an Honorary Lecturer at the University of Kent where he taught on the MA course in Mysticism and Religious Experience until his retirement in 2013. He is the editor of Land and Liberty, the journal of the Henry George Foundation, and the author of several Temenos Academy Papers, including The Lost Vision of Nature (2018). He is a Fellow of the Temenos Academy and a member of its Academic Board.

THE HARMONY INSTITUTE continues the work of the Harmony Initiative, a collaboration between the University of Wales Trinity Saint David's Sophia Centre for the Study of Cosmology and Culture, and the Institute of Sustainable Practice, Innovation and Resource Effectiveness. The inspiration for the Harmony Initiative is Harmony: A New Way of Looking at Our World (2010) written by HRH The Prince of Wales, the University's Chancellor, Tony Juniper and Ian Skelly. Its aim is to take forward the conversation on sustainability and what we as individuals and communities can do to live in harmony with the natural environment. It holds public outreach events and runs related courses at the University.

Love, Desire and Sacrifice in the Gospel of John

VALENTIN GERLIER

Wednesday 10 July

In the chair Freddie Sayers

Venue The Royal Asiatic Society

Doors open at 6.30pm

Lecture begins promptly at 7pm

Concludes 8.30pm

Already from its metaphysical prologue, the Gospel of John appears to be a mysterious text, alternating profound spiritual revelation with strange, unsettling tales of conflicts and rejection, and culminating in the story of an unjust death that paradoxically redeems all things. Alongside this perplexing narrative, however, the Gospel also weaves symbols, sayings and stories together to unite the contemplative life with the active.

Drawing on parallels between the Gospel of John and the Platonic Tradition, this lecture explores how the Gospel represents the transformative aspects of love by redirecting human desire into genuine love of the divine, a love which offers vision and understanding and awakens wisdom in the face of a foolish and conflicted world. This transformative love that the Gospel portrays culminates in a central revelation of Divine love for the world which paradoxically overturns the logic of sacrifice and transforms it into something new. In the Gospel, the words 'I AM' spoken by Jesus coincide with this transformative and sacrificial love: for John, 'to be' can only mean 'to love'.

VALENTIN GERLIER is a teacher, novelist and musician. He is currently engaged in doctoral research on Shakespeare and the Language of Grace at the University of Cambridge. A member of the Temenos Academy Academic Board, he teaches the 'Metaphysics' module of the Foundation Course in the Perennial Philosophy.

Ten Basic Principles that inspire the work of Temenos

Acknowledgement of Divinity

Love of Wisdom, as the essential basis of civilization

Spiritual vision as the life-breath of civilization

Maintenance of the revered traditions of mankind

Understanding of tradition as continual renewal

The provision of teaching by the best teachers available in their disciplines and of publications which set the highest standard in both content and design

Mindfulness that the purpose of teaching is to enable students to apply in their own lives that which they learn

To make Temenos known to all those who may benefit from its work

Reminding ourselves and those we teach to look up and not down

Governance of the Temenos Academy itself in the light of the above principles
